The supreme court has just decided the case of E. D. Haines & Co. vs. Banks Stewart, against Mr. Stewart. This is the suit wherein W. G. Simonson, as attorney for Haines & Co., attacked the old post-office building which was claimed by Stewart to have previously been sold to George Thorpe. The court holds the sale to have been in fraud.
S. M. Smyser returned from Kearney this morning where he represented Box Butte county at the congressional convention. He says that Judge Sullivan, of Custer county, was nominated in both the democratic and populist conventions, but that he declined to accept the nomination. Some of the democrats voted for Smyser and Harrington, of North Platte, but it was conceded by all that the populists were entitled to the office.

ANOTHER DECENT REPUBLICAN.

Register of the Land Office Dorrrington Is to Retain His Job.

A republican, and as good a man as inhabits Box Butte county, barring his devotion to an arrogant, imperialistic and monarchial political party—a staunch friend and patron of the HERALD, mind you—has said that he is making a note, keeping an account, of every mention by the HERALD of a decent republican, with the foolish idea that after awhile we will have them all enumerated under the head of "decent republicans." Well, this article concerns another political follower of Roosevelt and Hanna who richly merits the distinction of being classified among "decent republicans." And they are none too numerous in this neck of the woods, or elsewhere. This time the man the HERALD has singled out for the distinction is F. M. Dorrrington. Some folks prefix the name with the word "captain," and others with "honorable" but the HERALD will call him plain "Mr." Dorrrington. Nothing of public interest has happened in a long time that pleased the HERALD so immensely as the announcement that the combined efforts of a number of would-be "silk-stocking" gentry to retire F. M. Dorrrington from his position as register of the Alliance land office and install in his stead a man whose character—from any standpoint he may be considered—cannot approach the present incumbent of that office. In a letter under date of June 30, 1902, Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock notified Senator Millard that the president had instructed him to say that the appointment of J. R. VanBoskirk would not be made, but that in view of the splendid record of Mr. Dorrrington, as shown by the official reports he will be retained in his present position. Had one of the Oregon's big explosive shells fallen in their midst it could not have caused more consternation in the camp of the "silk stockings" than did this announcement—it fairly took their breath away. But the HERALD, has not a tear to shed nor a single word of sympathy to express for the ridiculous position in which they find themselves. It would like to pat the rough rider on the back, though, just once; and when he shows himself in Alliance this fall perhaps the HERALD will do it.
After all, the termination of the struggle for supremacy in connection with the Alliance land office is only another proof that "murder will out," so to speak. F. M. Dorrrington has been a veritable watchdog in the interests of the government in this land district; and while every boni fide settler has found in him a friend and advisor, he has proven himself capable to protect the government against many frauds. For instance, the action of this land office relative to the wholesale encumbering of our public domain with reservoir fillings prevented much litigation and saved hundreds of dollars to the people of this district. In fact, the record made during Mr. Dorrrington's entire administration of the affairs of the Alliance land office must have given him a splendid standing at Washington, and doubtless inspired the president to reappoint him. The HERALD does not agree with Mr. Dorrrington, politically—and it is proud of the fact—but it does know, and is not afraid to say what it knows—that he is one of the ablest and most efficient land officers in Nebraska. A man who has been a homesteader, knows his trials and tribulations and made his final proof upon the land. He knows a settler's wants and knows how to assist him, and does so. A lawyer of ability, a genial friend, a much respected citizen and a pioneer of Nebraska.

President Roosevelt, the interior department and Senators Millard and Deitrich are to be congratulated upon the happy termination of the registership of this office. And here are the HERALD's congratulations, gentlemen. For once in your lives—if you never do it again—you've done the square thing. How do you feel, Mr. Mugwump? We are talking to you down there in the opera house cellar. The laugh is on you, and every little schoolboy in town knows it. All the chicken-pie you'll get out of this deal would not appease the appetite of an English sparrow.
At Crawford, on the Fourth, the Alliance-Burlington ball team again demonstrated their superiority over the Tenth cavalry fellows, fairly wiping up the earth with them. The descendants of Ham hadn't a ghost of a show from start to finish. In the afternoon, the Alliance boys, weary from the fatigue of the forenoon's work, and perhaps a little overconfident, knowing that they had only second-raters to contend with, were defeated by the Crawford team—badly defeated. They didn't—or couldn't—play ball at all. But their defeat is not charged up against them. Their friends and admirers are still confident that under equally favorable circumstances they can best any ball team, with the exception, perhaps, of three, in the state of Nebraska.
Rev. H. Schulz writes us that he will hold German Lutheran services in the M. E. church, Alliance, on Sunday, July 13, at 1 o'clock p. m.
Dr. Allen, dentist, opera house block.

An Ugly Charge.

Difficulties over range are becoming as frequent in Box Butte county as pistol practice parties used to be in New Mexico over irrigation. With the distinction that there they were wont to kill, and here they only knock down and drag out. But the methods of the New Mexicoites were preferable to those resorted to by the Box Butteites. Or perhaps we ought to say New Mexicans and Box Butteans—it wouldn't grate so harshly upon the ears of would-be over-nice folks. The latest range row occurred about twelve miles north of Alliance, and the participants were a young man by the name of Clayton Worley and Mrs. M. Hood. Worley is charged with knocking Mrs. Hood off her horse. Sheriff Reed arrested Worley late Monday evening. Tuesday morning he was arraigned before County Judge Spacht, upon the charge of assault and battery, who, upon motion of counsel for accused, postponed the hearing until August 8. The HERALD will refrain from further comment until the facts in the case are known. It dislikes to believe that Clayton Worley would so far forget himself as to be guilty of such brutality and cowardice. It's an ugly charge, to say the least of it.

Attractive and Appropriate.

Among all the Fourth of July decorations in the city none were so attractive to us as that of Marcus Frankle, proprietor of the "Famous Clothing House." The front windows of this establishment presented a picture that was not only unusually attractive, but acted as an inspiration to all lovers of our country's history. In the north window appeared a facsimile of the original copy of the Declaration of Independence, draped in the national colors. In the same window was a beautiful color picture of that greatest of all great battles in the world's history, Gettysburg. The south window was but little less conspicuously adorned. There were large paintings showing prominent Union and Confederate generals, mounted on their war horses as they appeared during that memorable and fratricidal struggle from '61 to '65. Also pictures of our principal battleships in review. Mr. Frankle was the recipient of frequent congratulations on account of the taste and appropriateness displayed in the decorations, and large crowds gathered in front of the windows to admire them. The idea of the display originated with Mr. Cogswell, the trimmer at the Famous.

An Amusing Rumor.

The rumor that B. F. Lockwood & Co. have a "car of groceries" at the depot is quite amusing; but we will tell you what we have got and that is a car of fine furniture. We will commence unloading Friday, so as to have it ready for public inspection Monday.
Also, we have another car of furniture to be shipped on the 17th of this month and a half car coming between these shipments. This, with the stock on hand, will make the largest stock of furniture this side of Omaha. All these shipments were bought before the rise and will enable us to compete with eastern markets.
Remember that we carry everything in the line of furniture from the cradle to the grave. B. F. Lockwood & Co.

Miss Letha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Watson, of this city, returned home on the morning of the Fourth from St. Johns, Michigan, where she has been attending school for the last year. Miss Watson was graduated with the highest honors from the St. Johns High School June 19. She is a talented young lady and until the last year was a pupil in the Alliance High school. Miss Watson was the recipient of a large number of presents, presented her by classmates and friends in St. Johns.

Catchpenny Social.

The young people of the U. P. church will give a "catchpenny" social at the church next Wednesday evening, July 16. A program consisting of music and recitations will be rendered and refreshments served. An amusing feature of the evening will be a foot ball game. Remember the date and don't fail to attend.

Miss Mae McDermott was graduated from St. Mary's convent in Omaha June 27, and the Alliance people who witnessed the graduation exercises describe them as unusually interesting and express delight with the manner in which Miss Mae carried out her part of the program. She returned to her home in this city Saturday to remain a couple of months and will then go away to study music.

In their effort to wrest the laurels from the Alliance-Burlington base ball team, last Sunday, the newly organized city aggregation made a lamentable failure. If the wind had not been entirely taken out of their sails, and they will practice daily for a score of years, perhaps the new team might interest the Burlington boys. But even then it would be doubtful. The score was sixteen to five.

John P. E more arrived from Marshall, Mo., Tuesday morning and visited his family till Wednesday night when he left for Fenlon, Nevada, to resume railroad work.

Efforts are being made to have a new mail route run from Andrews to Marsland daily. As this route would supply a large number of families along the proposed route with mail facilities it ought to be established.—Crawford Tribune.

The Woman's Industrial society of the Baptist church will hold an ice-cream social at the church lawn next Tuesday evening, July 15. Should the weather be unfavorable, then in the church. Ice-cream and cake 15 cents. All invited.

The lawn social which was given by the ladies, at the Catholic parsonage, last Friday evening was postponed until Saturday evening on account of the rain. A pleasant time was had and about forty dollars were realized from the sale of ice-cream and lemonade.

Sunday at the Baptist church, G. C. Jeffers pastor: Morning sermon, "Water-Pots Left Behind." In the evening, Rev. W. J. Marsh, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, will occupy the pulpit. Sunday school at 10 o'clock. No Junior meeting. C. E. meeting at 7:15. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening. A welcome to all services.

R. C. Noleman returned Saturday from Hot Springs where he rented a furnished cottage which his family will occupy for the next month or two. The Noleman family has undergone a great deal of sickness during the past few weeks and it is hoped that a sojourn at the springs will prove beneficial. They left for the springs Thursday.

M. C. Beaumont, a well respected citizen and stockman of Dorsey precinct, spent Wednesday in this city attending to business matters. The only thing wrong with Mat is his politics—he's one of those "rantankerous" republicans—but notwithstanding this shortcoming, he has proven himself to be one of the HERALD's very best friends.

Geo. Nordness, of Nonpareil precinct, was in Alliance Tuesday and called at this office to advertise a stray steer which he has taken up. Mr. Nordness says that there are some good crops in his section but his were damaged by hail. His neighbor, Erick Rasmussen has 25 acres of wheat which he thinks will yield 25 bushels per acre. Henry VonBargen also has some wheat, rye and oats that look fine. Mr. VonBargen recently had three head of cows killed by lightning.
